

A close-up photograph of the fore-edge of a book. The image shows the binding material, which appears to be a dark, possibly leather or cloth, and the edges of the pages, which are a light, aged color. The book is lying flat, and the focus is on the thickness of the volume.

